

LOGAN GOES OUT OF COMMISSION AFTER NEXT TRIP

Famous Old Transport to Make Voyage via Canal; Nothing to Take Her Place

On an extra trip across the Pacific to the Philippines via the canal zone and Honolulu, the transport Logan will leave San Francisco December 20, and may be expected here about January 10. On its return trip the Logan will be sent to Newport News and placed out of commission.

Demands made upon the Pacific transports and the large number of troops waiting passage caused the War Department to send the Logan over on the extra trip. From San Francisco the Logan will take a number of officers and men and a part of the freight will be the 14-inch barbettes turrets which are to be used in the Philippine islands defenses.

From the canal zone the Logan will take the 27th Infantry, which started to its new station in the Philippines from Galveston on the Buford and has been held up because the transport could not get through the canal on account of slides. The Logan will take many officers and men from San Francisco who have been waiting a long time for transportation and on the return trip will relieve the congestion at Manila and in Honolulu.

F BOATS LIKELY TO REMAIN OUT OF COMMISSION

That the F-1, F-2 and F-3, the remaining boats of the F flotilla, the first submarine division, may remain out of commission permanently, and never return to Honolulu, was the opinion expressed today by an officer of the K flotilla, the third submarine division.

The K-7 and K-8 came over from Pearl Harbor for distilled water for their batteries this morning and it was while the submarines were anchored at the navy wharf just below the interned German cruiser Geier, that the officer said he thought the F boats would probably stay out of commission.

"There has not been anything in the way of repairs or alterations done on them yet," he said. "The Mare Island navy yard officials have apparently, so far as we can learn, just been looking the boats over. It doesn't look to me much as though they were coming back."

OUTDOOR CIRCLE DOING MUCH TO BEAUTIFY CITY

Paid Worker Will Start Monday Morning on Kalakaua
Avenue Shrubbery

The Outdoor Circle is having the newly-laid parking on Kalakaua avenue sodded and planted in grass. The holes are ready for the continued row of mahogany trees. The guards for the trees are being made under Mr. Fern at the prison, so that the trees will be protected from vandalism. The 200 coconut trees from Kauai are here and half of them are planted; the rest will be planted tomorrow. Many of the coconuts that were planted before have died and they will be replaced. The Outdoor Circle, with the permission of the city planning commission, will have a paid worker start Monday morning on Kalakaua avenue. His work will be to trim the trees and keep the oleanders in proper condition, also the weeds from growing around the roots.

The Outdoor Circle is also having the trees at Ala park attended to and properly treated as the ground around the trees is infested with ants which are destroying the roots of the monkeypod trees. City Park Superintendent Vierra is repairing and retaining the guards about the monkeypod trees. A great deal is being done all over the city by the Outdoor Circle and the hope is every one in Honolulu will realize the need of cooperation with this body of women who are giving so unselfishly of their time and money for the future attractiveness of this city.

MILLER FINDS HE HELD BANDIT BY SHOULDER THREE WEEKS AGO

To discover that he had inadvertently grabbed the desperate Korean bandit, Yee Yo Keuk, by the shoulder and then ordered him off the premises, not dreaming of his own peril, was the disconcerting experience of S. H. Miller, an employee of H. Hackfeld & Company, today, when he saw the picture of Keuk in the Star-Bulletin extra.

Mr. Miller resides in a cottage back of the German church on Beretania street—the church under which Keuk has admittedly been hiding frequently during the last four months. About three weeks ago the woman who does the janitor work for the church went to Miller and complained that she could not get into the church basement, the door being locked from the inside.

Miller went to the door, picked at the inside key and finally worked it around so that he pushed it out of the lock. When he got into the basement he felt that there was some intruder there but could find no one.

"Three evenings later," says Mr. Miller, "I discovered a Korean back of the church building. Imagining him to be the intruder of a few days previous, I walked up to him, grabbed him by the right shoulder and demanded his business. Gesturing vaguely he said he was going to see a 'friend,' but all the time he kept his left hand awkwardly in the outer pocket of his coat. I am now convinced that the man was Keuk, for he is the double of the picture in the Star-Bulletin extra. Also, I feel sure that he held a revolver in his left hand and would have shot me had he thought I recognized him."

Mr. Miller says that for many weeks he has seen feeble lights in the basement of the church and has heard someone walking there, but has never been able to locate the person whom he imagined was a common tramp.

OVERTHROW OF YUAN IS WHAT WUDAN URGED

In the Wudan hearing this morning at the immigration station time was taken up with the testimony of two witnesses for the defense. Harry Brown for the prosecution and R. W. Breckons for the defense questioned the two witnesses, Lee Lau and Chang Kwai, regarding the address delivered by Col. Gen. Wudan at a local theater in June.

Chang Kwai stated that he was present at the time of the address and testified that he was in the theater the entire time while Wudan was making a speech, and said that at no time did he hear Wudan make any remark regarding killing Yuan Shih-Kai. He stated that Wudan urged the overthrow of the present form of government, but did not use the term "de-capitalate."

Lee Lau stated that Wudan had objected to the adoption of the 21 articles submitted by Japan to China, and testified that the speaker said Yuan should be overthrown as the articles were never passed upon by the house of parliament, which was strictly against the constitution of China. He stated that Wudan did not use the word "kill" in connection with the Chinese president.

M. C. Amana, one of the witnesses for the prosecution, did not make an appearance at the hearing this morning. Wudan was accused of being an anarchist by the immigration officials. The hearing has been going on for two days and will be continued at 9:30 tomorrow morning.

DEFENSE SEEKS NEW TRIAL OF CURRAN ASSAULT CASE

The allegations that the jury in the second hearing was not legally constituted and that the special venire was not regularly drawn and summoned are two of the 20 grounds upon which is based a motion for a new trial of the case of James P. Curran, who was convicted in Circuit Judge Ashford's court last week of a charge of assault and battery on one James Terry, a structural iron worker. The motion for a new trial was filed in circuit court today. Curran was sentenced by Judge Ashford to a term of imprisonment in the territorial penitentiary.
